The transferee is not entitled to occupy the property until approval has been granted, or there is a legally binding decision that the transferee is entitled to acquire the share.

3.2 Right of pre-emption

- 1) The right of pre-emption cannot be exercised when the share is transferred to a spouse, to the shareholder's or spouse's relative in the direct ascending or descending line, to foster children who are actually in the same position as life heirs, to siblings or to anyone else who has belonged to the same household as the previous shareholder for the last two years.
